

RUSSELL GREY
LANDSCAPE
ARCHITECT DESIGN
PRINCIPAL

A true collaborator who enjoys listening as much as creating, Russ Grey has over 30 years of national and international experience designing world class landscape for clients across the globe. He approaches any project – large or small – by gathering insight from clients and inspiration from nature to bring outstanding land designs to life.

For Russ, landscape architecture is not just a business – it’s an opportunity to do what he loves best: bring top-notch expertise to clients, forge a collaborative working relationship and provide outstanding design solutions. Indeed this formula has been a recipe for a successful career. Prior to cofounding Grey|Pickett, Russ was principal at Brant & Grey; he also served as a leading designer at notable firms Wirth International, London and SWA Group, San Francisco.

When he’s not creating a sense of place, Russ likes to stay visual by discovering the beauty of new places. “Beauty can be found in the benign to the spectacular”, he says. “All one needs is a blank slate and a free spirit”.
