

MESQUITE JOURNAL

ARIZONA ASLA

MJ

17

HAWKES RESIDENCE

SCOTTSDALE, ARIZONA

RESIDENTIAL DESIGN $75-200K

HONOR AWARD

GREEY|PICKETT

This residence sits within the DC Ranch Community and is a renovation of a traditional landscape into a contemporary garden. The front auto court and courtyard were removed to create an inviting front yard living space for the homeowners and their guests.

The contemporary steel planters complement the steel detailing on the home and offer an opportunity to highlight unique native plant species. The spectacular salvaged 15-foot Organ Pipe Cactus grabs your eye as you enter the residence and anchors the contemporary garden. Located between the custom steel fire pit and the large feature window of the residence is dynamic water feature. This water feature has a reflective surface with a grid of bubblers that create animated water works which can be enjoyed from the relaxing outdoor seating area as well as within the residence.

To the right of the entry, an intimate outdoor seating area and fireplace were added to the exquisite guest quarters. The unique placement of large Golden Barrel Cacti line the walkway and are up-lit at night.

The back terrace has been redesigned to create inviting entertainment areas that overlook the golf course as well as protected private dining areas. A large family gathering spot is nestled between the pool and centered around the concrete fire pit. The relaxing spa has a negative edge that falls as a focal point towards the master bedroom.

A secluded private dining area off of the kitchen incorporates a steel louver wall that can be opened and closed, providing privacy from adjacent neighbors and protection from the wind. Gridded masses of succulents and cacti reinforce the structure of the home.

Overall, the contemporary landscape design is true to the owner's desires and complements the architecture of the home beautifully.

